Profile

I am a dedicated, lifelong learner with exceptional Latin and Greek language skills. I would like to apply those skills, my passion for teaching, and experience with instruction to help students learn these languages in an interactive way. I want to succeed in a stimulating and challenging environment and to teach others to do the same. I was educated at a classical Christian school, I am a strong proponent of the classical Christian model and curriculum, and I am dedicated to promoting scholarly work in a Christian environment through the unification of faith and reason.
